CONCERT COURSE IS BEING PLANNED

Rock Island Music Lovers To Be Given Opportunity To Hear C. W. Best Artists' Series.

TO BE STAGED AT HIGH SCHOOL

Members of Faculty Working To Make Concerts a Success—Much Talent Is Promised.

The high school will this year again be honored with concerts given by the C. W. Best Artists' series. These concerts are in the form of a lyceum course and tickets are sold covering the three concerts. They give the students of the local high school, as well as the general public, an opportunity to hear some of the world's greatest artists at a small expense. Their educational value is incalculable and an attempt is to be made this year to secure a large enough attendance to meet the expenses of bringing the artists here.

Mr. Best, who controls the series, is not in the business for profit, and indeed has several times been forced to pay his own expenses, because of lack of proper appreciation of the concerts. Such was his experience in Rock Island last year, but he is again on the ground and will endeavor for the second time to gain the attention of Rock Island people who appreciate good music.

The first performance will be given Oct. 24, and will be in the form of a dramatic recital by Penetta Sargent Haskell. Mrs. Haskell has been enthusiastically received in the leading cities and countries of the world. She has appeared in recitals in New York, Washington, New Orleans, Chicago, City of Mexico, in England, Scotland, Cuba, and nearly every city of any size from Maine to California, and from Florida to Canada. Her magnetic personality, her rich resonant voice, her ability to respond to each shade of feeling in the many characters she interprets and impersonates, always meet with instant appreciation. Mrs. Haskell's versatility may be judged by the extent and variety of her programs. They offer something to everyone. To the young she speaks through James Whitcomb Riley, Paul Laurence Dunbar and Roy Rolfe Gilson; to the romantic through a special program entitled, "How Men Propose," made up of love scenes from various authors. To the studious and serious she offers selections from Shakespeare, Browning and Victor Hugo.

She also renders negro dialect in a manner that seems an echo from the southern plantations. Mrs. Haskell gave a recital at the Rock Island high school last year, and her return will be welcomed by the students and public who had the opportunity to hear her then.

The second concert will be given on Nov. 15, and will be a joint recital by Alberto Salvi, Helen Brown Read, and Edith Harris.

Signor Alberto Salvi, Venetian harpist, was educated in the Naples conservatory, where he completed an eight-year course in five years, winning first prize. The harp playing of Signor Salvi is a revelation; he overcomes seemingly insurmountable difficulties in technique, interval, arpeggios, etc., with greatest ease, playing passages single-handed that are tremendously hard of accomplishment by right-hand players using both hands. He uses an especially large-sized Warfizer harp, made for concert work. Rock Island people will not soon again have an opportunity to hear an artist of Salvi's calibre, for he ranks with the masters of the musical world and is judged by some critics as the world's greatest harpist.

Helen Brown Read studied five years with Professor Petri of Dresden, Saxony, whose husband was the first violin of the Royal Opera orchestra of Dresden. Then afterwards she spent two years with Jean de Reszke in Paris, later studying with Oscar Secor.

She was a member of the Stadt grand opera of Chemnitz, Saxony, for two years. During this time she sang the roles of "Mazurka" in "Faust," in which she made her debut; "Mimi" in "La Boheme," "Marie" in the "Bartered Bride," "Antonia" in the "Tales of Hoffman," "Azucena" from "Don Carlos" and many other important roles. Upon going to England Miss Read was engaged to make a tour with Pavlova and the Russian Ballet. She sang on each program, with piano and orchestra accompaniment, arias from the operas, and "lieder." This tour extended through the principal cities of England, Scotland and Wales, and lasted four months. She has many flattering press comments to her credit and is an unusually great soprano vocalist.

Edith Harris, accompanist, has studied with the celebrated virtuoso,

Rafael Joseffy, and has also spent a year in Paris under the tutelage of Moritz Moszkowski. She has toured the coast as the accompanist of many prominent singers. Some of her more difficult renditions are: Scriabin's Nocturne for the left hand, the Schütz-Evler "Danube" waltz, and Moszkowski's Etude, Tarentelle and Nocturne.

The third and last concert will be given on Dec. 11, by Francis Allan Wheeler, Lois Brown and Winston Wilkinson.

Mr. Wheeler, the celebrated Pittsburgh baritone, has a rich, clear, expressive voice and absolute control. He sings with marked dignity and dramatic feeling. In the lightness of the lyric, the heavy throbs of the battle piece, the tender strains of the musical legend and lively movement of the character songs, he shows his excellent taste and beauty of tone. Of musical parentage, his training begun by his father, was continued over eight years under Savage of Pittsburgh, the while singing at all the leading musical events in that city. He has made several tours of the country, meeting with the greatest success everywhere.

Miss Lois Brown, the young American pianist, who begins her second season with the C. W. Best Artists' series, has just returned from five years spent in Berlin. For two years she toured Germany, where she appeared with the principal orchestras. Miss Brown has a tremendous technique and a splendid touch, and this, combined with a thorough understanding of the music, makes it a pleasure to listen to her.

Winston Wilkinson, although still in his teens, is one of the most brilliant young American trained violinists now before the public. Mr. Wilkinson won first honors in the southern district contest of the National Federation of Music Clubs, held in Memphis, Tenn., and as the violin representative of the south, played at the biennial convention held in Los Angeles in June, 1915.

Tickets for the three concerts are now being sold, and the charge for reserved seats for the three performances will be only 50 cents. Principal A. J. Burton and other members of the faculty will do all in their power to make the affair a success, and the low charge is made in hopes of securing a large audience for the artists to play to.
